

Global economy has reached an all time low. The increasing rates of college drop-outs, unwanted pregnancies and drug users are all part of today's sombre social reality. The reason? Sagging pants. An epidemic affecting 1 in 5 people worldwide. And the source of the problem? America.

Something has to be done. It is our common responsibility to take a stand against an issue that's currently affecting the lives of millions of people. This is why Beer for Belts was born. A charitable action where Two Tales pledges to donate a belt to an ill-fitting pant wearing American, for every 6pack sold.
